2

In-House Training Programs

are considered one of the most important training solutions applied by many successful institutions to improve performance at the individual and institutional levels, we believe in the effectiveness of the outputs of this type of training, we have paid special attention through the utmost care to identify and meet the needs of every institution

Applied workshops

We believe that practicing the acquisition of skills, knowledge and information is the best to create a real and clear impact from training and we are distinguished in this aspect by offering workshops in partnership with local community institutions

Determining the training needs of institutions

The identification of training needs is the main element in the training industry as it is the most important stage in the training process, which works to determine the persons covered by the training, its objectives, the content of the program and the method by which training can be provided through careful and objective identification of training needs that are based on privacy of the institution, which is where we excel and through a specialized team to help institutions wishing to define the training needs for their jobs and employees

Providing Technical, Educational, Administrative and Financial Consultations

We are working to provide integrated solutions in the consultative side, and implementation in accordance with the best international practices, by enabling our scientific and professional experts in the consultative field, informing them of global best practices in corporation with our strategic partners from international educational and professional institutions to benefit from their expertise in various fields
